- Andrew T. Palecek

Allan H. Palecek, a designer, entrepreneur, conservationist, and philanthropist, founded Palecek in 1974 with his wife Nancy. While serving as an Air Force pilot, he was inspired by handcrafted natural elements and unusual weaving techniques in Asia. He identified a void in the market for distinctive rattan and wicker accessories and began importing baskets. With an eye on sustainability and the goal of creating functional works of art from natural fibers, he developed a network of master artisans and began introducing home accents that could be customized domestically. Today, the Palecek name represents high-end design for residential and commercial furniture, accessories, wall décor, and lighting. With global distribution and eight showrooms, he is known as a style leader. In 2020, he was inducted into the American Home Furnishings Hall of Fame. The award was given in recognition of his inventiveness, his strategic leadership, and his contributions to the trade.

NATURAL MATERIALS

We've chosen these special, beautiful, flexible materials—seagrass, rattan, abaca—and we are passionate about using them. We could design in many other materials, but we've never found anything we like better.

SEAGRASS

Seagrass is one of the strongest and most abundant grasses available, making it a sought-after material for furnishings and accessories. Seagrass grows in shallow, salty, brackish waters in sheltered coastal areas and are among the most productive ecosystems on the planet. When used to form chair and sofa frames, seagrass produces unique and durable pieces.

LAMPAKANAY

Lampakanay is a swamp plant reaching up to 2 meters in height. Leaves are long, linear and 10 to 12 millimeters wide. It is widely distributed all over the Philippine archipelago and is abundant in low altitudes, wet places with shallow, stagnant water, and is harvested and processed as fiber by communities living in these kinds of areas all over the country. Application of the fiber on a product is also done by these local communities. Its abundance and ease in propagation means supply will not run short.

POLE RATTAN

Pole rattan, a member of the palm family, is renowned for its solid, smooth and uniform shape. Pole rattan is light but very strong, so it's an ideal material for crafting lightweight, durable furniture. Pole rattan skin, called "rattan peel" or "cane matting" can be woven and used for chair seats and other accessories.

CORE RATTAN

Core rattan, aesthetically-pleasing and reliably sturdy, is used for a wide range of furnishings and accessories. A naturally-growing vine-like plant species that's similar to bamboo, rattan is a strong and fibrous plant. Woven rattan, called "wicker," is a style of weave that's often used as the foundation of lightweight furnishings and accessories such as baskets.

Evans Side Chair 🗸

ABACA PLANT

Abaca plant, related to the banana plant, is prized for its strong stalk. The inner portion of the stalk is resilient and rubbery. Due to its superb strength and flexibility, abaca fiber is used to make intricate woven furnishings and accessories. Abaca is incredibly fast-growing, making it a wonderfully sustainable natural material to work with.

PETRIFIED WOOD

Petrified wood occurs when wood turns to stone, via a process called permineralization. The organic material is replaced with minerals, while the original structure of the tree remains intact. This fascinating process begins underground when the wood is buried beneath sediment. Lack of oxygen preserves the woods' structure, while mineral-rich water flowing through the sediment deposits minerals into the tree's decaying cells. In this way, the wood slowly turns to stone. Different minerals yield a variety of rich and vibrant colors that are associated with petrified wood. Naturally occurring fissure lines also add interest and depth. Petrified wood is used to create stunning tabletops, accessories, and décor.

RAFFIA

Raffia is a natural fiber harvested from a specific type of palm tree that grows in Africa, South America and the Philippines. The fiber is produced from the membrane on the underside of each individual frond leaf that's taken off to create a long, thin strand which can be dyed and woven, much like a textile. This versatile fiber has been used in interiors for centuries. Its soft but pliable texture has made it a popular material for covering furniture, as well as for making accessories and wallpaper.

FOSSILIZED CLAMS

Fossilized clams are not found at the bottom of the sea, but on top of remote mountains in Asia, often embedded in ancient lava flows. Like petrified wood, fossilized clams have gone through the process of permineralization, where organic matter is replaced with minerals. The result is a truly extraordinary material that adds interest and beauty to a wide range of accessories and furnishings.

COCONUT

The coconut, a staple ingredient in many Asian cuisines, is also the foundation of innovative and exquisite furniture and accessories. When used to create handcrafted furnishings, coconut shells are sanded smooth, polished and cut into various shapes, sometimes painted and sometimes left in their natural state. The coconut shell is a natural, sustainable material that lends luster and depth to decorative items and furnishings.

SADDLE OYSTER

Saddle oysters are marine mollusks having rough irregular shell, found on the seabed mostly in coastal waters. They are also known as windowpane oyster of the Indian and Pacific oceans having a broad arch like saddle. Natural color is deep purple with white and silver tones. Champagne color is a result of further processing of the shell. Saddle oysters are highly abundant in the Philippine islands. Playa Sconce >

ONYX

Onyx is a gemstone with alternating color bands that are parallel to one another as opposed to the more random banding found in agates. It has a long history of use for hardstone carving and jewelry, where it is usually cut as a cabochon or into beads. Larger pieces are occasionally wrought in the form of cups, bowls, vases, and other pottery items.

SOAPSTONE

Soapstone (also known as steatite or soaprock) is a talc-schist, which is a type of metamorphic rock. It is composed largely of the magnesium rich mineral talc. Due to it's durability and heat-resistant characteristics, it has been used for building kitchen countertops, sinks, cooking and heating equipment. Soapstone is also easy to carve and has been a medium for carving statues, jewelry boxes and bowls for thousands of years and can be used to create molds for casting objects from soft metals such as pewter or silver.

OUTDOOR MATERIALS

RESIN

Resin starts as a thick liquid of various viscosities. When the molecules are bonded together by heat or with a chemical reaction, it creates the solid mass "resin". The process usually involves first making a mold to a specific shape and then using the mold to make the resin component. The mold can be created from wood, foam, clay or plaster. In some cases, original objects such as horns and shells are used to form the desired shape of the final resin product. A resin piece is great for indoor/outdoor use and is easy to maintain. The surface can be embellished with hand-painted finishes.

COMPOSITE STONE CAST

Composite stone cast is crushed stone bound together by a polymer resin mix. This material is highly durable and can withstand extreme temperatures and is resistant to corrosion making it ideal for outdoor.

NATURAL STONE MARQUETRY

Natural stone marquetry is a tedious process that requires expertise in inlay as well as an eye for pattern. Each stone tile is intricately shaped and laminated by hand to achieve the overall pattern. Every stone has its individual characteristics in both color and appearance. Because of this, every stone marquetry product is uniquely different from each other. With the products main frame in resin, each stone is plotted and cut by hand to achieve the desired pattern. Before the natural stone is set, the craftsman also forms the tile according to pattern and fit.

MARINE ROPE

Marine Rope is our all–weather synthetic rope made from 100% polyester with maximum UV protection. The rope is specifically designed and made for outdoor use. It is water and mold resistant and will never break or become brittle due to weather exposure.

OUTDOOR FAUX WOOD FINISH

The Outdoor Faux Wood Finish on metal is a unique and special technique that mimics wood texture. Outdoor Faux Wood Finish is intricately hand-painted by expert finishers to create a wood-like appearance on metal.

POWDER COATING

Powder Coating is a type of coating that is applied as a free-flowing, dry powder. The coating is typically applied electrostatically and is then cured under heat to allow it to flow and form a weatherproof "skin". The main difference between a conventional liquid paint and a powder coating is that the powder coating does not require a solvent to keep the binder and filler parts in a liquid suspension form. The powder may be a thermoplastic or a thermoset polymer. It is usually used to create a hard finish that is tougher than conventional paint for outdoor.

TEAK WOOD

Teak Wood has a natural golden brown color that over time will weather and naturally change into an elegant patina grey. It is also the ideal wood for outdoor furniture for these top reasons:

 Weather Resistant – It is one of the few woods in the world containing a natural oil which repels water, keeping it from warping, cracking or becoming brittle. Outdoor furniture made from teak will withstand the harsh effects of hard rains, severe winter snow storms and broiling sun with minimal effect to its structural integrity.

 Pest & Mold Resistant – The same resins and oils that protect against weather, also serve as repellents against insects like termites, marine borers and mold.

3) Low Maintenance – With the wood's high oil content, teak will fade naturally into an elegant patina grey. Teak's natural look can be maintained by regularly applying teak oil.
